Maryland Governor Refuses To
Commute Death Sentence to Imprisonment

Washington, July 27.—Richard H. Whittemore last night refused to grant a petition for clemency for the murder of Robert H. Haldeman, a prominent lawyer, by the "Candy Kid," a Baltimore youth, who was sentenced to death by the Maryland court.

In a letter to the governor, Whittemore said that the law of Maryland is for the law of the land and that the governor's duty is to enforce the law. He said that the law of the land is the law of the land and that the governor's duty is to enforce the law.

Whittemore's refusal to grant clemency to the "Candy Kid" was a surprise to many who had expected the governor to commute the death sentence to imprisonment. The governor's decision was based on the fact that the "Candy Kid" had been found guilty of the murder of a prominent lawyer and that the law of the land is the law of the land.

TRACK REPAIRS AND BUILDING HALTED BY RAIN

New Railroad Yard Drainage System Given Test by Steady Downpour

Rain yesterday called a halt to all work on the new railroad yard. The drainage system installed at the yard was given a thorough test by the steady downpour. The system is designed to handle the large volume of water that will be run off by the new tracks and buildings. The test showed that the system is capable of handling the water without any overflow or damage to the property.

GLORIA SPEEDS MARQUIS ON TRIP

In Marquette de la Fatale, otherwise known as Gloria Swanson, appears a little less than happy as she goes for her husband, the Marquis de la Fatale, on her short business trip to Europe.

The best previous record established in June 1926.

A big decrease in the number of flight cars in need of repair is also shown according to the records of car shops.

The total number to be repaired is approximately 10,000, a seven per cent decrease of the number on the list in 1926.

Continues of revenue brought for the week ended on July 10 total $1,000,000, according to reports filed by car shops with the American Highway Association.

On a trip, this was a decrease of over $1,000,000 over the corresponding week last year and a decrease of 10,000 cars under the corresponding week in 1924.

In making comparisons, however, with the corresponding weeks in 1924 and 1925 consideration must be given to the fact that those weeks did not contain a holiday while the week of July 10 this year did.

Carl Mosher, traveling freight agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, was a business visitor at the local Hokey Valley freight house yesterday.

W. J. Hayes, traveling freight agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, having headquarters in Chicago, was transporting business in the local freight house yesterday.

To Decide Issues
Among the more important resolutions are those which urge retention of the state workmen's compensation law without change; opposition to a state constabulary limiting the powers of equity courts; passage of an anti-junction law, and outlawing the so-called "yellow dog" contract, which compels the worker to sign an individual contract with his employer and refrain from affiliating with organized labor.
These objectives of labor, which were stressed by both William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and State President John P. Frey, will form the basis upon which candidates for state officers will be judged.
At the Tuesday afternoon session, reports of First Vice President Thomas Hall and Secretary-Treasurer Thomas J. Donnelly were read and numerous resolutions referred to committees.

GIRL EVANGELIST PLANS TO SAVE GOTHAM

Christine Maybelle Utley, girl evangelist

New York, July 25—Out of a rooming house for a stage career, that utterly consumed her at the age of seven, Christine Maybelle Utley, now in her middle teens, has evolved a new career and a new ambition. The evangelization of New York City is her life work.
She is a bright, vigorous girl, this Miss Utley, whose theological education is limited almost wholly to intensive reading of the Bible but whose powers of oratorical and emotional appeal are revealed by few of the great preachers of the day.
She is, naturally, a militant fundamentalist. The Rev. John H. Stetson, famous fundamentalist evangelist of the Calvary Baptist Church, New York, is outspoken in his admiration of her.
"She is the most remarkable person in America," is Dr. Stetson's opinion. "Out of ambition that would have led her far astray she has been almost miraculously raised up as a rebuke to the religious complacency of the age." Born in Durant, Okla., fourteen years ago, Christine early exhibited a talent and love for dancing and acting. Like the average child she had definitely decided upon her career before time to begin school. At seven she knew she would be a dancer or a movie star. Her family moved to California within a few years and at length took up their residence in Fresno, near, but not near enough, to Hollywood, the goal of the seventeen-year-old.

However, she was directed from her path toward stardom by a Los Angeles revival meeting. There she saw what she believed to be the error of her way and determined, from thence on, to devote her life to evangelism.
She has already exhorted, repentant audiences in New York, but in the fall, with Dr. Stetson as her leader, she will inaugurate a series of great mass revival meetings as the beginning of her self-appointed task—the salvation of the city which Dr. Stetson has termed "the modern Babylon."

Two-thirds of the people are dull—they fail to make a hit. Afterward, they are found on the largely deserted, where people who are not particular, buy them.

BOY BANDIT IS DROWNED ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE

Falls into River When He Flees
as Officers Raid Hiding Place

Middletown, Conn., July 25—The Connecticut river, sweeping the waters of nearly all New England down to Long Island Sound, is particularly deadly here and has a long list of victims that is added to steadily each summer. A recent victim was William Brown, 19, who lived on the river bank at Middletown and supposedly was familiar with all the river moths. But Brown was a youthful bandit who had terrorized the entire section about Middletown and had 25 "jobs" to his credit, including some in which he made free use of revolver shots.
Brown had a cave on outskirts of Middletown and there worked out his robbery plans, police say. Eventually the police became aware of the cave and when they wanted Brown badly they raided the place by night.
Brown heard them coming and instead of battling, he slipped down a secret path by the river bank, intending to hide a bit. He slipped—and the river carried him away. His mother identified his body when the police who had chased him failed to recognize this youthful bandit as he lay dead.

REPORTED IMPROVING—Mrs. M. H. Moschetti, of Chicago, Mass. Nadine McMahon, daughter of who underwent an operation for an eye and Mrs. W. W. McMahon, 484 residents Monday morning at Marion Hospital.
City Hospital, is reported to be improving. Mr. Moschetti, who arrived, it was said, had said he would have Saturday night, returned home last a lot more work to do.

Now "Ma" Ferguson says she will resign September 13. Maybe she plans to convince Texans that thirteen isn't so unlucky after all.

No, Geraldine. You are in error. Detroit's proposed book lower is not intended for a place where people can go to get away from the noise of traffic and road.

However, the mere fact that Mayor Swartz, of Canton, has suspended Chief of Police Langel in no way stops the latter from tendering his resignation, even if that hasn't yet appeared to the chief as the proper thing to do.

The Philadelphia Record asks: "How do Chicago convicts manage to get hold of bombs?" It's manifest those Quaker City folks do not realize what accommodating jail guards they have up in Chicago.

Not always. We have known otherwise sharp men, men of far beyond the average knowledge, who have suffered from the disease.

Lloyd George's plan to settle the British coal strike has failed. Can it be that the British miners and operators are utterly indifferent to the political rehabilitation of the former premier?

If anybody expected "Uncle Hiram" Johnson to overlook the treatment being accorded Americans over in Paris as an excuse for voicing a little opposition to American entrance into the league of nations or the annex thereto, popularly known as the World court, it goes to show they didn't know our veteran friend and one-time fellow-traveler.

Governor Pinchot holds that officials should be promoted on merit, but for the life of us we can not see how a plan like that would land Clifford any nearer the White House.

The traffic experts have decided, as nearly as we can figure out their finding, that automobile accidents are due to automobiles. And all this time we have been imagining from the chills looks the motorists have been giving us as we sought to cross the street that they held us true aristocrats of the land responsible for at least 99.44 per cent. of 'em.

A clamor of moisture—possibly one of the fellows who can take it or leave it alone—says a wet it wet because it is his right and desire to be, the evident inference being that a dry is dry against his will and because he has to be, which is decidedly remarkable. One naturally would look for the shriek of anguish to come from the fellow existing, under compulsion, out upon the hot desert sands.

Commenting on the way the pacifists are losing in the Chicago Tribune suggests that, as something like an expenditure of $50,000,000 put prohibition over, there is no reason why pacifism couldn't be put over the same way. Not so much in fact, for that pacifism which would resist the advance of pacifism is not so strongly developed in the most of us as was the thirst among those who combated prohibition and are now engaged in doing their utmost to nullify the prohibition law.

The Merchant Tailors' Designers' association in session up at Cedar Point has decided that "the wide trouser leg has had its day." According to our way of thinking, its day was early twenty-three hours, fifty-nine minutes and fifty-nine seconds too long.

The case of Mrs. Ferguson should carry its lesson to all married women in office and those who may attain office in the future. They are not elected as wives, but as citizens, and it is expected that they will be the servants of the public and not the mere shadows of their husbands. Otherwise they will be compelled to walk the political plank just as has Mrs. Ferguson, who has been governor of Texas, if we are to credit reports, in name only.

And, by way of contrast, there's Nellie Ross, cut in Wyoming, who has made a splendid governor and will be renominated, and, if the political prophets know what they are talking about, overwhelmingly elected next November.

Whoever brings a smile into the world has not lived in vain, and thus it is that we pay tribute to Captain Bartley, of the Leviathan, who denies that humor has been sold abroad.

His vessel, naively explaining that passengers have asked him if liquor could be had aboard and that he had told them it could not, and in every case asked passengers to report to him if they were able to purchase any, and not one of them had ever so reported. What more convincing proof of the vessel's dryness could be had than that?

Chautauqua To Open Thursday.

Thursday will mark the opening of the five-day program of the Marion County Chautauqua.

The big annual mid-summer event which is precisely what its name implies—a series of entertainments for the enjoyment of all the people of Marion county who care to give it their patronage and support.

The management gives assurance that this year's program will be fully up to the high standard which has marked our Chautauqua in the past and in some respects surpass for interest and entertainment those which have gone before.

One of the features of this year's program is the excellence of its balance, the variety of its offerings. Lectures, readings, music and the drama are so blended as to make a perfect whole.

The Marion County Chautauqua for long years back has been a recognized institution. It may be said that, from the initial Chautauqua on the fairground up to the present, there has not been a local Chautauqua which has failed to the commonplaces in general esteem and the great majority of them have far excelled in merit the average Chautauqua, which has grown so popular throughout the Middle West.

Of course, there are those who regret the passing of the old days when the local Chautauqua was held under canvas—and there is something about the tent which appeals to the average American—but those of us who remember the storm which marked one season's Chautauqua and the drenching we received and the uncertainty in regard to possible rains which marked another are very content that the tents have given way to the fine, light, airy, splendidly-constructed pavilion out at Garfield park, which is so accessible by car line and has such a beautiful approach and surroundings.

There are times when we are inclined to believe that the best way to cure us of this love for the old days, so strong in some of us, would be to bring them back to us and force us to endure them with all the discomforts that went therewith. In any event, we are of the opinion that one entertainment given under the old conditions with the ordinary hard heard arena seats—camp chairs were extra—would reconcile even the greatest good-ol'-days enthusiast to the substitution of the easy, comfortable seating of the pavilion out at Garfield park.

Something tells us that an easy way to commute suicide would be to go down to Texas and suggest that the Lone Star state do some more "indicating."

From a Columbus item we glean that 532 successfully took the state examination, last month, to practice law in Ohio. It looks like an awful lot of talent to be turned loose upon a commonwealth at one time, but if murders, hold-ups, bank robberies and other crimes increase within the next five or ten years at the same rate they have in the five or ten years past, possibly there may be demand for it.

My Alredale is a dreadful beast—It is his great delight to feast On creatures that are long deceased And smothered.

He stares at the ribbons, too, And tucks him out a new bow tie, And settles down, no enters if you are yelling.

My Alredale muses the countryside, And ranges through the landscape wide, And won't come home until he's told And dragged there.

He's often rushed with muddy feet, To welcome guests who are quite neat, And on their laps he's taken seat And waggled there.

My Alredale looks at me with eyes That make me gulp, though none denies He licks me he licks the skies Above him.

Sometimes my man says he must go, And I agree, but well we know That we are saying that for show—We love him!

My Alredale has no soul, they say—He's nothing but a lump of clay, Perhaps. But when we reach the day We wonder.

And near the golden gate I'll bet, I'll see him wriggling up, I'll bet, And some good soul, within, will let Him under.

AT THE END OF THE RAINBOW

Relationship of Mind and Body.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

We hear a lot about the effect of mind over matter. I wonder just how much the mental control has to do with the body.

A great many times you will find yourself blue and unhappy and cast down, when your mental state is due largely to the condition of the liver. There is no doubt that indigestion, sluggishness of the intestines, and failure of secretion on the part of the kidneys are factors having a lot to do with the mental state. You can not be happy and cheerful if your organs are not functioning as they should.

I am perfectly willing to concede, however, that the mental state in its turn has a lot to do with the way you feel. If you get all stirred up and have your emotions excited, the functions of your highly organized sympathetic nervous system will be seriously disturbed. Excitement stimulates the heart and throes that organ. Despair lessens the motions of the heart, and in consequence the cleansing streams of blood are not sent through the system.

Sadness and profound grief destroy the appetite. Without appetite there is a failure to take the nourishing food so essential to health and vigor. All the emotions react in one way or another upon the physical functions.

You can see there is a relationship between mind and body. Everything tending to make you happy will make you feel better physically. You can not have red cheeks, sparkling eyes, clearness of skin, and firmness of muscle unless your mental processes are what they should be. Happiness is a tonic. It stimulates the wine does. The "grand and glorious feeling" of which we read, is likely to come to our naturally content.

The ideal life to lead is one so well balanced that every day records duty well done, every obligation met, and a consciousness of right conduct and noble aspirations.

If we can add to a mental state such as I have just described, right living with all its means, we have the conditions which certainly add years to every life. The rules of living are simple. Fresh air, sunlight, plenty of good water to drink, simple food, the avoidance of excess fatigue, abundance of sleep, cleanliness of the body, proper dress—these we have the secrets of good health.

For myself I do not believe that long life is likely to follow persistent violation of the rules of right living and right thinking. It isn't enough simply to observe physical rules. There are mental and moral rules which must be observed. I have read that "a man thinketh in his heart, so he is." There is no doubt that right thinking has a tremendous part in our lives.

But when I talk about right thinking I include in that term right thinking as regards the physical surroundings and physical conduct. I don't think a man is a good man who is careless of his body. The body is God's temple, and in my opinion the man who projects God's temple is an irreverent man. Certainly he is not a God-fearing man.

The time will come when we will have a different idea of illness than we have today. We will be ashamed to admit that we are sick. So many of our ailments are the result of our own wrong living that when society becomes thoroughly informed on this subject it will resent illness due to neglect of the common precautions.

By a combination of right-thinking and right-living we may hope to extend the span of life and to be effective and useful in the advanced years which will come to us.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

R. C. Q.—Kindly advise me if one can be affected with hay fever in the city of Denver, as I am about there this summer and would like to know in advance.

A.—It would be difficult to advise you without knowing the exact cause of your attacks. Why not consult your doctor and have him test you to determine the exact cause of the attacks.

A. E. L. Q.—What can I do for a shopped face?

A.—Is gasoline harmful for the eyelashes?

A.—Apply a good cold cream before retiring and massage gently into the skin.

War Debt Fictions.

[New York Herald-Tribune.]

The idea that the French government borrowed money from the United States after our declaration of war without expecting to repay it within any definite term or to pay interest on it is a pure legend. It is gratifying to know that many representative Frenchmen do not accept this myth and are candid enough to call attention to the historic realities of the transaction.

In a recent issue of "Le Matin," M. Stephane Luce published some extracts from the French diplomatic archives illuminating the attitude and intentions of the French government when the first war advances were sent. Here is the dispatch in which Ambassador Jusserand told of his initial interview with Secretary McAdoo—on April 12, 1917:

"I have just talked with the secretary of the treasury about our financial needs. The figure of $135,500,000 a month drew no objection from him. That of $218,000,000 a month, which would cover the total of our purchases elsewhere than in the United States, seemed a little high to him, but it is not impossible that we may obtain it."

The interest will be the same as the government of the United States is able to obtain, probably 3 1/2 per cent, with a guaranty that if later loans should be made at a higher rate the same interest would be paid on the first loan. This interest must be paid by all the allied countries interested. As to the time of repayment, I mention—supposing it to be agreeable—fifteen years. Mr. McAdoo made no objection to that."

"Such," says M. Luce, "was the thought of the borrowers at Washington on April 12, 1917."

A few days later the French government called Ambassador Jusserand to ask for a twenty-five-year instead of a fifteen-year term. He secured that modification. Then he was requested to ask for thirty years. Secretary McAdoo again agreed.

M. Luce reports Mr. McAdoo as saying: "All right! It will be thirty years. For the first ten years you will pay only interest, and in the next twenty an amortization, which will assure reimbursement at the end of thirty years."

Paris accepted these terms. M. Luce says, on April 26, 1917. In the negotiations called Ambassador Jusserand was made of a common interest and a common cause requiring them to be considered a non-reimbursable contribution by the United States. They represent national debts contracted by the allies individually for national war purposes. They established a legal relation of creditor and debtor.

The war loans to France are to be practically wiped out by the Reneger settlement. But that is only because of American recognition of the debtor's capacity to pay, reinforced by friendly consideration of France's present financial difficulties. Any Frenchman who examines the nature and origin of these contracts must abandon forever the notion that the United States in collecting any part of its war debts is doing violence to the spirit of conditions of our war association with the allies.

Q. Do the policemen of London carry pistols?

A. C.

A. The police of London do not carry pistols under ordinary circumstances. The Police Regulation of 1920, amended 1922 and 1923, prohibits among the equipment of the Metropolitan police handkerchiefs, a truncheon, whistle and chain. During the recent strike in London, it was suggested that the policemen be armed, but the policy was not adopted.

Q. Who were the old dwellers? J. W. D.

A. The term "old dwellers" is used to designate the supposed extinct builders of the numerous cliff ruins scattered throughout the canyons of the Southwest, along the upper rivers of the Colorado and Rio Grande, in Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico. For a long time their origin was a subject of much discussion, but recent investigation has proved that these ruins are not the work of any extinct race, but were built by the immediate ancestors of the modern Pueblo Indians, some of whom, notably

The Way of the World.

Travel by automobile is thought to be a speedy means of locomotion. Compared with a team of horses, an ordinary car or a bicycle is fast. Easy money at that is a good average of 300 miles in a day. But we are only beginning to learn the possibilities of rapid travel.

Major Gardner, director of aeronautics for the United States chamber of commerce, has depicted a flight of 21 hours across the airways of Europe, Asia and North Africa. He averaged ninety miles an hour.

The Russell Sage foundation has been having an investigation of jails in the United States. The report says county jails provide an ideal environment for education in crime. It is a curious fact that prisons, which are built to combat crime, prove breeding centers. Our knowledge of the best methods for human reform has not kept up with our knowledge in some other lines.

It is interesting to hear that a German named Gahler has done something that was "impossible" to do. He has invented something that could not be invented. Gahler has invented a shuttleless loom and has thus greatly cheapened and simplified weaving. Mechanically-minded men have long regarded a shuttleless loom as an impossibility. Gahler's triumph shows that most of us believe too much in the value of experience.

Experience is not nearly so important as we think it is. We are too greatly guided by it. The outstanding successes are generally made by men who disregard the experience of others and try something that "can't be done."

A lot of things that have had small beginnings—never very important—have become sacred to us. We think they were ordained to be thus and so from the beginning of the world. For instance, as James Harvey Robinson tells us in the August Harper's, the reason Augustus, Augustus, took one off February so the month named for him would have as many days as July, named for Julius Caesar. Some religious customs are merely the outgrowth of the fear that savage peoples once had that they would be flooded on the earth or burned up by the sun.

The only sacrifice worth while is the sacrifice that grows out of love and devotion. Sacrifice prompted by fear is hollow.

A scientist from Carnegie Institute, studying microscopic water animals, discovers a very queer sort. They are related to lobsters and crabs—but they are all female. In the processes of evolution must we expect that some day the whole world will get that way?

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS.

The worst joke I heard today was told to me by Rev. John Stanley Hale, of Madelia, Minnesota. He is a very young boy that has just finished at the American college in Rome and I met him there when I went to annoy them one day at lunch with some of my many riddles, and I afterwards met him on the train. He was one who was home to take up his chosen profession. I got him and his companion another boy I told you about yesterday who had just graduated there to, Rev. Bernard J. Launon.

Well, I got those boys to stop over with me at Nice, and we had a great time. Young Hale told me a story on the bishops of the Church of England. There is various ways of addressing them. Some call them one thing and some another. He had heard of calling the bishop "Old Boy." But there was one little girl who had been instructed very carefully that when he came to their house which he was to do that night she was to call him "My Lord." The bishop came and being a very pleasant old fellow he picked out the little girl and asked her: "How old are you, my dear?" "Oh, by God, I'm only five," she answered sweetly.—Copyright, 1926.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, July 25.—The passing of Louis Sherry several weeks ago removed another illustrious name from that galaxy of epicurean stars who dazzled the Manhattan gourmands less than a decade ago. Deimos, Reilly, Stanley and Sherry.

Old Sherry's on Fifth avenue—now a hotel—was one of the high spots of the town. It was where Little Egypt appeared at the famous Seelye dinner. The tables at the restaurant abloom with flowers were reserved for men whose names are known all over the world—Stanford White, Berry Wall, the fashion plate, George Gould and others.

Here they looked out on the burning and roasting of the salacious but-char amid the luxury hangings. The avenue had not yet glared with the brilliant red of the fire and the clon-clop of cobbled horses still smoldered in the air.

The banquet rooms were scenes of more Lucullan feasts that sometimes reached a climax and the front pages. High-topping yet gathered at Sherry's at 6 o'clock to wet their cocktail appetites with the famous select menu on the bar.

The waiters, like those at "Dear Old Lady," cater-corded across the way, were old hands and had turned gray in service. They were mostly Irish and the Greeks, French and Italians had not yet taken up the calling. They were Mikes, Pats and Johns.

The debacle of this restaurant world of the early nineties set in with prohibition. The process was slow and the proprietors as well as the old servers waited hopefully, but popularity waned until three days before Sherry's closed only two faithful diners graced the dining-room.

Sherry finally realized the palace of gourmands had had its day. A new era had been launched and he began the operation of a chain of candy stores. He had made several millions. Today the glittering chandeliers adorn a mid-western motion picture theater.

Healey's at Sixty-Sixth street omitted every popular restaurant of its day. It is a kidding for patronage under a new name. In the old days it was run by Tom Healey, a grand Irishman, who had an all-out horse. He made several spectacular resistances to police interference after the dry law, but business fell away. It was not unusual to see petrons leaving Healey's in the brilliant sunshine of an early morning. Bunnies, Chas. a suave little head waiter, knew everybody of importance and to be admitted to Healey's after 2 o'clock was a mark of worldly distinction.

LICENSE COMMITTEE NOW IN TEX'S PATH

Dempsey-Tunney Bout Will be Official Should Rickard Leap Across Last Barrier

Decision on Fight Rests with Col. John J. Phelan; Muldoon and Brower Confident That Brawl Will Go Through; Legal Go May Be Outcome of Tangle

BY GEORGE BARRY
NEW YORK, July 25.—There will be no Dempsey-Tunney fight in New York or anywhere else—James A. Farley, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, has said today. The commission has no right to refuse a permit to Rickard except for a legal reason—George E. Brower.

The fight is coming back to New York, where it belongs, even if it is necessary to go into court for the license—William Muldoon.

Colonel John J. Phelan, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, has said today that the commission will not grant a license to Rickard unless the fight is held in New York.

There is a nutshell, you have an idea of the uncertainty into which Tex Rickard will plunge upon his return from Chicago to complete plans for a heavyweight championship battle between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney at the Yankee Stadium on Sept. 16.

The lawyers probably will have their saying soon as the controversy comes headed for the courts.

Turnout Appearances
On the surface it has been smoothed over by the action of the State Athletic Commission yesterday in granting permission to Rickard to stage the fight. Underneath, however, there is plenty of turmoil.

The responsibility now rests on Colonel John J. Phelan, chairman of the license committee. James A. Farley, chairman of the commission, was authorized by Commissioners Brower and Muldoon yesterday in the matter of approving Rickard's application, but he has not consented.

Before they can do any boxing in New York, Dempsey and Tunney must apply for licenses. The license committee met yesterday, and among other things, ruled that all applications for reinstatement must be made direct to the committee.

May Bar Haul
If this procedure is followed, Dempsey and Tunney can not make application through the boxing board where a friendly majority exists, but must go to Colonel Phelan and his associate, D. Walker Ward.

Colonel Phelan is known to look with extreme disfavor on Dempsey, especially since the champion "ran out" on Harry Wills after agreeing to come to a definite understanding with the commission on that match.

It is not likely that Rickard will be able to get any action, one way or the other, on the fighters' licenses before the next meeting of the license committee.

Ruth had 35 homers to his credit at this stage of the season in 1932 when he established his record of 50.

Shure, They Will be Using Irish Confetti Before Long

"The Phelans and the Farleys, Muldoon and the Browers, and the way these boys are harping over which has got the powers 'Tis only fair to issue 'Tis the popular war!' That there'll surely be no Dempsey fight. Ere next St. Patrick's morning.

When a state athletic commission is composed of two stubborn Irishmen from opposite sides of the river and a third who holds the balance of power and applies it with all the decisive characteristics of a Mexican jumping bean, nearly anything is likely to happen.

Two loyal New Yorkers are Muldoon and Brower of the aforementioned commission and when they saw the city of Chicago apparently running off with the plum in the

Sports—

Rickard Pulls Great Bluff; Go Still Pends

ON again, off again, on again. That's the way the proposed Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship fight brawls has been rarin' up in the sports pages during the past several weeks.

Now the scenery and all the stage property of this great sport drama has been loaded on a rattler bound for New York City, the city of corn-fed mammas and soft speech as Billy DeBeck would put it.

Chicago, the metropolis of the west where Tex Rickard, the fight show man, had established his headquarters for a quite a number of hectic days, appears to have been worked as a factor in a great bluff.

Refused point blank to stage the bout in New York, Tex moved to Chicago and with a majestic flourish announced that Dempsey and Tunney would meet in that city. Opposition from Chicago sports-writers and a certain organization known as the Chicago Coliseum Club, headed by a D. C. Clements, made staging the go an almost impossible feat. Rickard, undoubtedly knew this, but he carried on the bluff.

Some of the powerful men in New York immediately began bearing pressure to have the bout for the metropolis. Yesterday morning, Heland received a telegram from Brower of the New York Commission, telling him to come back to New York. At a meeting of the commission yesterday afternoon, the commissioners approved of the bout by a vote of 2 to 1. Chairman Farley voting against it.

Once more the match is on.

BUT, notwithstanding the action of the commission in approving the bout, Rickard may get a little back in New York to find his place in the city.

The bout must receive the sanction of the license committee today before it becomes official.

Here is where Chairman Farley, who has been persistent in his demands that Dempsey meet Wills over since the black man filed his challenge with the New York solons, has an ace in the hole and is expected to play it today when the bout is placed before the license committee.

This particular body of men, headed by Col. John J. Phelan, has been holding out for Farley all along and may bar Tex's plans by refusing to grant him a license.

Commissioners Muldoon and Brower, who voted for the bout yesterday afternoon, claim the license committee cannot refuse a license, except on legal grounds.

Once more the match may be off.

REGARDLESS of whether the bout is held or not, the New York Commission has cleared itself in the eyes of the fans as a body by the action taken in approving the 20 yesterday.

The commission has been a great well for many months having progress of Tex's plans, by its persistent stand for Dempsey to meet Wills—a fight which no sane promoter would attempt.

Such a bout has not the drawing power of Dempsey-Tunney match and it would be mixed with too much politics for any promoter to risk losing his shirt on it.

It is doubtful whether this D. C. Clements of Chicago ever had any intentions of trying to oust Rickard out of the Windy City with his alleged contract which is said to have bound Dempsey to meet the negro.

Wills would have been the foremost opponent for Dempsey several years back when his reputation was at its height. Now, it appears the negro is just a victim of circumstances. He failed to impress the fans in bouts with Firpo and even "fired horses".

With Tunney as Dempsey's opponent, it appears to be a different story. Tunney is young; he has the reputation; he is a good fighter; something Dempsey couldn't do; he is an ex-soldier. In other words he is the crowd's man and the one and only one who could induce them to dig down deep into their pockets and help Tex Rickard pay the price which Dempsey will ask for just a short time in the ring.

Every Cigarette At Its Best Because "It's Toasted"

LUCKY STRIKES are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, perfectly blended.

Besides this supreme quality of leaf tobacco as compared with all other cigarettes—"IT'S TOASTED".

Just what does this mean—this phrase, "IT'S TOASTED"? The tobacco is oven toasted at very high heats for 45 minutes; then chilled with the moisture completely restored. The toasting brings out the hidden flavors of the superbly fine tobacco. The chilling seals in these flavors; seals in, too, the moisture that has been restored. It all acts like a cold plunge on the pores of the body.

That's why LUCKIES taste so good. Why LUCKIES are always fresh when they come to you. Why millions prefer this uniquely fine cigarette.

JOHNNY DATTO

When Louis "Kid" Kaplan re- linquished what claim he had to the world's featherweight title—and he had been crowned the crown by most folk—he started a merry scramble.
There are half a dozen nifty featherweight lads who believe they should be declared "on" an any effort to solve the question as to who should be his headgear.
One of these is Johnny Datto, Filipino lad.
Datto is without a doubt one of the fastest men in the ring—and, brother, how can he be? These are two attributes that cannot be overlooked in discussing a fighter's worth.
Another thing about Datto is that he is an honest to goodness featherweight and not one of the turkish bath kind. He never has any trouble holding to the weight and when not in active training never weighs over 124 pounds. This despite the fact that Datto believes in treating his funny wummy rather royally when waiting for a bout to turn up.
Datto probably has more knock outs to his credit than any other young featur in the game. He has lost but two battles—one to John Drew, who outpointed him, and one to Babe Herman, who knocked him out in the twelfth round.
He is said to Datto's credit that Drew outweighed him by close to 10 pounds. Herman had gone to the floor twice in the first round of his battle with Datto and three times in the third round. Later, however, Herman partly paralyzed Datto with a punch on the back.
Among Datto's loudest clothes are Hattie Schaeffer, Dick Fleming, Bricker Ryan, Johnny Duff, Johnny Nichols, Paulie Gallo, He outpointed Charlie Glaser in his last bout. This despite an injury to his hand in the second round which prevented him from pouring his hardest with that paw.

Here's Chance to Select Marion's Popular Players

THE announcement issued in yesterday's sports pages of the Star, inviting fans and recreation players of the city to assist in selecting the most popular recreational ball player in Marion brought nine responses in this morning's mail.
Of the nine selections sent in to the Sports Editor of the Star, three men forged into the lead as favorites. They were Francis Huron of the Marion Strum Shovels, Lloyd Messenger of the Canary and Business Men's team and Roy Rice of Fawcett No. 1 and Business Men's No. 1 clubs.
The contest will close at 6 o'clock on Friday night, Aug. 8. The names of the players selected will be tabulated and the one receiving the most number of votes will be awarded the honor.
In making their selections, persons are asked to name five men connected with teams in Marion's five recreation leagues, whom they believe to be the best in the city, considering personality, sportsmanship, playing ability and other qualities that a good ball player should own.
Selections can either be tabulated and brought into the Star offices personally anytime between 6:30 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock at night. Names should accompany selections.
What are your selections?

Rain last night resulted in a postponement of all games scheduled to be played in the two Sunday School Recreation Leagues until Wednesday night of next week. It was announced today by F. O. Randolph, official of the base ball commission.

Washington took fifth place away from the White Sox by downing the White Sox, 7 to 2. Al Thomas blew up in the eighth when the Senators scored six runs while Walter Johnson pitched well all the way.
Bill Harris and Earl Bell took over handling the Red Sox by Counts Mack, collaborated in while washing the Tigers, 7 to 0.
The Yankees got off to a running start against the Giants and just lasted to win, 4 to 3.
Jackson and Lindquist kept the Giants in the game with boppers.
A single by Andy High enabled Bob Smith, of the Braves to win a 3 to 0 duel from Charles Root, of the Cubs in the ninth. The Cubs got only four hits.
The Cardinals climbed to within two games of second place by taking a 9 to 6 slugfest match from the Phillies.
